At [SCHOOL/DISTRICT NAME], we use the Standard Response Protocol (SRP) to help students, staff, and our community share a common language for responding to emergencies.

The SRP is built around five clear actions: Hold, Secure, Lockdown, Evacuate, and Shelter. Each gives us simple, consistent direction for what to do when something happens at school.

Knowing the words is important. Knowing what they mean is even better.

A shared response starts with a shared understanding.

[SCHOOL/DISTRICT NAME] uses the Standard Response Protocol (SRP), an all-hazards approach built around five actions: Hold, Secure, Lockdown, Evacuate, and Shelter.

For the SRP to work well, it's important that our students, staff, families, and community partners understand not only the language, but what each action means and what to do when it's called.

The "I Love U Guys" Foundation's "5 Minutes, 5 Actions: The Standard Response Protocol" offers a quick, student-led introduction to the SRP and the five actions we practice in our schools.

We encourage our entire school community to watch and learn with us.
