

SRP PreK-2+ Social Media Templates

Bringing Learn From the Helpers into your classroom is something worth celebrating.

To help you introduce these resources to your school community, we've created a few ready-to-use social media templates. Feel free to copy, personalize, and share them on your school or districts's social media channels.

Whether you're reading the book to students at the beginning of the school year or introducing the SRP throughout the year, these posts can help families understand how you're teaching school safety in an age-appropriate, trauma-informed way that focuses on the whole child.

Story time is about to get a little more meaningful.

This school year, we're excited to introduce The "I Love U Guys" Foundation's Learn From the Helpers: 5 Actions That Keep Us Safe as part of how we teach the Standard Response Protocol (SRP).

Created specifically for young learners, this children's book helps us have important conversations about school safety in an age-appropriate, trauma-informed way that focuses on the whole child.

We believe students learn best when they feel safe, supported, and cared for. And these resources help us build that foundation together.

We're looking forward to sharing this story with our students and continuing to partner with families to create a safe learning environment for every child.

One story. Five actions. A whole lot of heart.

This year, we'll be reading Learn From the Helpers: 5 Actions That Keep Us Safe from @iloveuguyfoundation with our students as we introduce the Standard Response Protocol (SRP).

The book helps children learn about school safety in a way that's age-appropriate, trauma-informed, and centered on helping students feel safe, not scared.

We're excited to begin these conversations with our students and continue creating a school where every child feels supported, prepared, and ready to learn.

We're excited to incorporate Learn From the Helpers: 5 Actions That Keep Us Safe into our school safety instruction this year.

Developed by The "I Love U Guys" Foundation, these resources help educators introduce the Standard Response Protocol (SRP) through age-appropriate, trauma-informed instruction designed specifically for young learners.

We appreciate the opportunity to teach important safety concepts in a way that supports the whole child while helping students build confidence, understanding, and preparedness.

Creating a safe school environment is a shared commitment, and we're grateful for resources that help make those conversations meaningful for students, educators, and families.

Tips

Personalize these posts by sharing a photo of the book, your classroom setup, or your staff reading Learn From the Helpers. Authentic posts help families see how you're creating a school community where students feel safe, supported, and prepared to learn.
